

Outdoor Lighting

The most compelling reason to have good outdoor lighting around your home is safety. It is absolutely essential to light key areas around your home and garden.

The most common mistake once homeowners realize that it is important to light the outside of their home, is to overlight! Remember, you don't have to land a 747 on your sidewalk!

Think of your home as a painting; you want to highlight certain areas; the first being the front door: next, the path leading up to the home. Also, grazing the structure with a soft light and soft lights on the shrubbery is a nice touch. If you have any steps, there are several different methods to illuminate them.

You can use a combination of low voltage and line voltage lighting to achieve a beautiful effect.

One of the many services that we provide to our customers is designing a lighting plan to suit their individual tastes and needs. It's as easy as making an appointment with one of our lighting designers.
